Words From Chairman

민족사관고등학교 교훈

민족주체성 교육으로 내일의 밝은 조국을
출세하기 위한 공부를 하지말고 학문을 위한 공부를 하자
출세를 위한 진로를 택하지 말고 소질과 적성에 맞는 진로를 택하자

이것이 나의 진정한 행복이고 내일의 밝은 조국이다

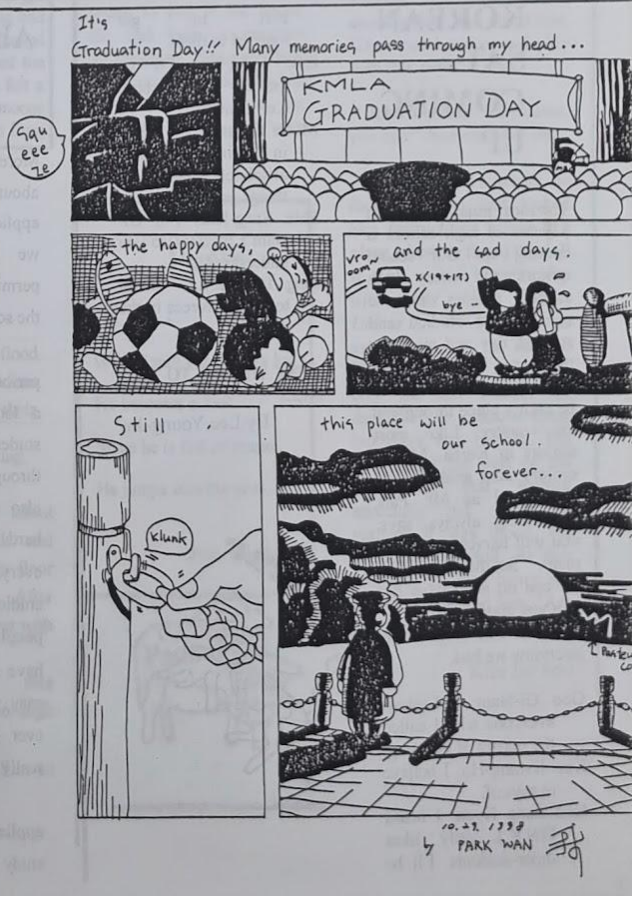

In the past, a weaker nation used to be invaded and ruled by a neighboring stronger one. In this age of smaller world, however, it is possible for the superpowers to invade and rule any nation in the world, not with the armed forces as in the past, but with their culture or economy. Then it is easily foreseen that any nation can become the slave of political, economic superpowers unless it has a strong ethnic identity.

In this respect, KMLA attempts to achieve a dual educational goal: the first paragraph of our school motto clearly states that we aim to install Korean spirit into the students' minds, not in a Chauvinistic way but in a way they can accept the cultures and economy of other nations, while the second paragraph of the school motto prescribes the attitude students have to adopt in their studies and in the way of life, which will help them achieve true happiness and contribute to the health and development of our nation as leaders in their chosen fields.

Words From the First Chief Editor

Many people thought it is impossible to make English newspapers, but we did make it. And we think this is just a beginning. We will make this newspaper as long as our school exists, and we are so happy that history has been made, tonight.

A Bird Never Looks Back While It Is Flying.

"Writing a poem, especially looking back on myself is really terrible.
Always I make myself tired.
From now on, never speak of lifetime.
I dreamed of a bird who left blood on my heart and fled--never ought to happen to me.
I was afraid of enduring the time till my death.
Never ask again about these things,
That which has disappeared into the past, in my heart,
The lifetime,
It never comes to us again.
A bird never looks back while it is flying.
A bird which looks back is already a dead one."

One day, a sincere friend told me of an affliction--a problem she was having with another friend of hers. She fretted because her friend had disappointed her.
In that moment, I recalled the words of Ryu shi-hwa, 'A bird never looks back--' and I told her to just let it be; move on away from 'friend.'
Though such a solution might be taken as selfish conduct,
I thought that turning away, or moving on, would be better than the meaningless pains in which she seemed prone to wallow.

The Move to Humanity Building

Juhyun Jeong

Young students are rapidly scrubbing the floor; sleeves rolled up, laughter filling the traditional Korean-style building. After a few hours of hard working the place smells crisp, fresh, pure. . . you just name the word!

The same young people are carrying loads of books, massive bookshelves, computers, TVs, desks, etc from one traditional Korean-style building to another. They resemble ants, working so hard, fast, quick and non-stoping. In less than 4 hours, 14 offices and most of the library is completely moved!!

What's happening?

Welcome to KMLA, The Korean Minjok Leadership Academy. The above are the overall descriptions of the cleaning and moving day to the Liberal Arts Building. Every student helped clean the dusty, dirty and even "rusted" building that hadn't been used for over 10 months and under sophomore Ko Duk Soo's supervise, every student helped all the teachers belonging to the Department of Liberal Arts move their offices to the other building, safely but not quite soundly because there was music in the air, everybody was hyper, talking and even dancing while moving was in process. On these two Sundays all students and teachers became one. Everyone was looking out if there was anything they could help. Now that looked liked the Nobel Prize winners – to be. ^^

In KMLA students do not only study, as most people think. We do many various things that students can not experience in normal high schools. And this is one of the things. Plus, after the big move Mr.Choi, the Chairman, prepared a big celebration, including a traditional ritual for good fortune to come, samulnori (traditional music), and a "march" around the building. And at the end a marvelous feast, which made all the starving people(?) get really full. For everyone I'm sure that the two days were very tiring, but also became a precious memory too. Many memories will be remembered for their beauty, but some, like this, will be remembered for all the barrels of sweat! ^^ <The Minjok Herald – Juhyun Jeong>

About KAIST

Jin Jung Gun

More than three months ago, about July 20, we were the applicants for KAIST. Now we have been officially permitted to be students at the school.

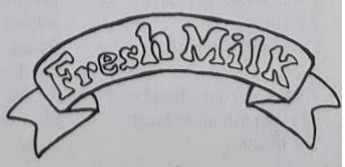

During the testing periods, us ten went through a lot of stress that most students would be going through only as a senior. We also studied really, really hard. I would like to inform everybody how hard we studied, because many people are saying that we have entered university the easy way. But nobody will ever know what we have really gone through.

The 12 who applied for KAIST had to study only English for one month. Which was a torture to me. WE studied English from the moment we opened our eyes in the morning until when our heads would hit the pillow at night. This is no joke.

Anyways, we all studied very hard, and on the twenty-third of August for our first examination we took the TOEFL test, which out of 1059 students only 600 could pass. Fortunately all 12 passed the first test. Of the 600, 400 students including 7 from our school had already been decided to be pre-KAIST students. But the other 200, including 5 from our school only 100 would be chosen from the specialties-interview. I was one of the 5, and for the nest several days I studied only physics. On the twenty-first of September the 200 students took the specialties-interview test, and 3out of 5 passed in our school.

This is how the 10 of us achieved the title, to-be-KAISTians(?). Maybe to some people it doesn't look that hard, but for me having to have passed two big, heavy hates the process was not easy.

Now there is a third gate, that is competing with the Science High School students, and win so that many students from our school could apply next year and the following years. It is not an easy task, but I believe that we can do it!

The Mannequin Mother

Tom's father was killed in the Vietnam War when Tom was two years old. The day was Friday the 13th. It was raining, foggy. When he was on sentry, suddenly a bullet passed through his heart.

10 years later...

Tom had become very dependent on his mother for everything. For example, when doing his homework or when deciding something, he always asks his mother.

It was also Friday the 13th raining and foggy when Tom's mother was crossing 31st street. She noticed a truck rushing toward her. But it was too late... she was run over by the truck. Her body was severed. Her body was dyed red from her own blood. But the truck driver ran away.

During the funeral ceremony Tom couldn't really believe the fact that his mother was dead. After her funeral ceremony, Tom began to miss his mother very much. So he decided that he would have a mannequin made to look like his mother. He ordered it from the factory.

One week passed...

When he came home after school, he found the mannequin. 'Wow! It just takes one week!' It really resembled his mother. He said to the mannequin, "Hello mom! I'm home."

Suddenly the mannequin answered, "Hi! honey. Did you have a good day?" Tom was surprised. The mannequin's voice was really the same as his mother's.

'How can the mannequin speak? No! It is just a special mannequin. Maybe my mother's voice has been recorded for me. Maybe that's it!' and he lived as usual.

But since the mannequin came to his house, strange things happened everyday. The mannequin sometimes disappeared at night, or there would be blood in the toilet. Suddenly, Tom thought it was too strange. At that time, the telephone rang. "Hello. This is Tom speaking."

"This is the mannequin factory. Your mannequin is done. We will bring it tomorrow. OK?"

The Cat's Revenge

It was a dreary, rainy and foggy night. Bill was driving his car through heavy rain. There were no cars, so he drove very fast, 100km/hour. Listening to music, he thought happily of his lover. It made him drive faster. At that moment Bill saw the cat standing in the middle of the road. The cat looked at him with an angry glare. Bill was horribly scared and slammed on the break peddle. But the cat didn't move. A loud crash broke the silence . Bill looked around and noticed nobody. So he kept going, even though the cat was hurt so badly that he should have taken care of it.

After driving for 5 hours without stop, he got to his house. He was very scared, so he turned on TV, radio and went to bed. He covered himself with bedquilt. It was dawn before he could fall asleep.

During the day he was restless because the cat came to mind all the time. Night came again. Bill came home after a party. Many friends attended the party, and Bill was able to forget about the cat by drinking and talking with them. He turned the TV on, and watched the movie. At that time he felt a strange chill as if someone had been looking at him from behind. But there was nothing when he looked back.

He had just begun to watch TV again, when he felt the chill again. But there was nothing! He stopped watching and went to bed, because something made him scared without reason.

As he was about to sleep, he heard the sound. It sounded like a baby. Then he looked back and he saw the horrible sight. Many cats with angry, staring eyes were surrounding him. What would happen?

Are You Alone?

It was dark, dreary, and horrible. Nobody had lived in it for a long time. It was a very old house. Only spiders, rats, and roaches moved around in the house. There was even rumor that ghosts lived in the house. As a result, people were afraid of approaching the house, although there was no problem to live in it.

Several years later, John began to live in the house. He had been a common businessman. However, there was a traffic accident and as a result, his wife died. So, John and his daughter were left. He was so poor that he couldn't find a decent house to live in. That was the reason that they lived in such a horrible house, even though he knew about the rumor.

He has a daughter. She was 7 years old, and her name was Helen. Her hobby was collecting dolls and she had many. She lived peacefully in that house with his father. They were happy, though they were poor. They lived to help each other, and in time they began to forget about her death.

One day, John went down to the basement to clean, because he hadn't cleaned it since his wife's death. He cleaned it with Helen. When he had almost finished cleaning the basement, he found a doll in the corner. The doll looked like a girl. It was pretty, but the part around its lips was especially red compared with the other part. However, he didn't care and gave it to Helen. She was happy because she could have another doll. She asked him, "Dad, can I go out and play with this doll?"

John replied, "Of course, you can." And she went out.

As he went on cleaning, he found a paper that looked like instructions beside the place where he found the doll. It was written Don't play with this doll alone. Unless..... He was astonished, so he ran to Helen. However, there was only the doll without his daughter. He looked around, but there was nobody. His eye caught the part of the doll's lip that seemed especially red. Then he realized it was blood. He picked up the doll. At that moment, the doll being red around lips, asked him, "Are you alone, too?"

Flood in Humanities Building

The old building (Chungmukwan) had a problem with its roof last year. When it rained, it never failed to leak. Therefore, students had to use the new building (Dasankwan).

However, that was in August. The roof is okay now, and both buildings can be used. After the repairs there was still a problem with Chungmukwan. It was way too dirty to use because it has not been cleaned for a long time, so the students decided to clean the building.

One week, when most teachers went to visit the middle schools in Seoul to talk to students about next years' entrance to our school, all KMLA students cleaned the old building. They divided the work among student groups, and each cleaned their own place.

The floor was too dirty to clean by hand and cloth. Suddenly, one student hit upon an idea. It was to use a fire hose! Sophomore In Chi-won turned on the hose and hosed down the floor. It looked like a flood. Then the floor became clean. Many students took off their shoes and enjoyed sliding.

They forgot about the very hard work and fatigue of cleaning the floor and just had fun. After hosing, we cleaned floor with dry mops.

The floor was twinkling after the thorough cleaning.

Opinion

"Carpe diem."

Enjoy Today. (Seize the Day!)

By KO Duk-su

No one knows what the future will bring. What will tomorrow bring? Even tomorrow's weather forecast may be totally wrong. We often think that we are so strong; but, in fact, from a larger, more universal perspective, we are quite weak. We can easily be killed by the slightest car accident, by the smallest germ of a deadly disease or by one rock that is put into motion by an earthquake or some other natural phenomena.

Therefore we should not think too much, or worry too much about tomorrow. We should live today as if this very day is the last day of our lives. If we try to live everyday like this, we will not waste any of time. Whether we worry about tomorrow, or not, it will come--or it will not. It's coming is beyond our control.

So, Carpe Diem.

If I were God, how would I treat Clinton?
(or: How should Heaven Treat President Clinton)

2nd Choi Jung-min

Honesty, Trust, Faith,..... Today, what do these words mean in our societies, relative to normative relationships between people?

In my opinion, if one is responsible for leading any group or any people, one has to be honest. Because they originally believed in Clinton, the American people selected him to be their leader. Of course, the leader must have great leadership abilities. But I think , as the first quality above all, the leader should be faithful; and second, he should have a clean spirit. If by chance, he develops some fault in his word, deed, or character, he must be able to confess his mistake, and apologize to his people for such a fault. For such honesty, a leader surely needs bravery. Nonetheless, such strength is surely a necessity if one is to stand as a true leader.

Unfortunately, Clinton doesn't have that bravery and honesty. Only when backed into a corner, in danger of being impeached, did he confess. This posture is such bad behavior for a leader. He broke the trust of his people. So if the choice were mine, if I ruled from heaven, I would let him be impeached.

Afternoon Nap-time

Agree

Kwak ill-hwan

At school, I have often had the experience of feeling sleepy and not being able to study in class after lunchtime. In fact, many students, all over Korea, doze in class at that time. Accordingly, rather than the dozing-off in class, I think that we should gladly take advantage of the nap-time we are given, here at Minjok Academy.

Scientifically speaking, the afternoon nap is a very reasonable convention to maintain.

Usually, we naturally feel sleepy after we have lunch. At that time [our body] temperatures are high and our stomachs are full. Therefore, we can not concentrate as easily, on any work, as we could before lunch.

When we eat something, our stomachs begin to work. Thereupon our body system tends to shift focus and concentrate specifically on digesting. Because of that physiological change, our bodies may not be able to execute other functions as well as it could at other times. For all of the above reasons, I agree with the idea of having an afternoon nap.

Disagree

2nd Woosik Oh

"Everybody hates it, and everybody is doing something else (if they can). It is bad for your health" (or so every "experienced" student says), and "it does not help you in any way." It is every student's "bete noire." However, one man, one insistent man (our headmaster, no less), wants everybody to do this. And indeed, everybody is wasting time doing it. Yes, such is the dilemma of 'the afternoon nap' of KMLA.

Now, there is no doubt that the afternoon nap is unnecessary. Except for the chairman, everybody feels this way. One does not need a list with many reasons to prove this point. Just try forcing yourself to sleep for 45 minutes, right after lunch; and you will understand, immediately, why the nap is a waist of time: basically, you feel dizzy when reawaken--and even sleepier than you felt before you went to lay down. Also, your digestion system will not work properly during your nap.

So what is the ideal alternative? The answer is very simple: free time. I strongly believe that all the students of KMLA do know how to use their time wisely. If you just let them have free time, they will make good use of the break. Some of them will read books, and some may even sleep... (a little). Anyway, after such a free period most students will feel much more comfortable and relaxed, for sure.

However, I have to concede that this solution could only be an "ideal" alternative--never a "real" possibility. Why? Because: there will be little to no chance to bring about this change. Our Chairman strongly believes that this nap-time is a necessity, an absolute "must"--for the leaders. And--as Korea has a strong and proud Confucian tradition--for students to stand in opposition to the chairman's opinion, in this school, is an extremely difficult uphill challenge. So, in the meantime: Sweet dreams!

Dreams - Are they useful or not?

1998. 10. 1

People put big values on dreams, and they are much interested in them, but what do we know about dreams? Almost nothing. Many of us just think that a dream is a kind of mysterious happening, and they never try to think about it from a scientific point of view, and never try to take advantage of dreams.

Dreams have valuable information. A dream is a reflection of the present life and it shows us the unconscious mind. using dreams, we can have a more effective life. For example, Shakespeare got inspiration for his characters from dreams, and many musicians said that dreams are the source of their musical inspiration.

When we wake up, our thinking becomes narrow, because we have the belief that somethings are impossible, but when we sleep, we are more open to the paranormal. At that time, all of our normal doubts and disbelieves are suspended. That makes us think more freely. In free thinking we can have good, cool ideas. That is the reason why we can get fantastic inspiration from dream, so dreams are valuable.

There are stages in sleep, and only in R.E.M sleep can we have dreams. At that time, our eyes move very fast, and brains relax through dreams. After all, we can have 4 or 5 dreams everyday, because R.E.M stage repeats every 90 minutes. Nevertheless, it is hard to remember even one dream.

Then how can we remember dreams clearly? We can remember dreams more clearly through training. When you wake up, you should not move, but think about the dream which you had a few minutes ago on your bed. If you try to gather parts of your dream, you can remember a whole beautiful dream clearly. When you try it again and again, the situation will improve, until you can remember your dream very clearly.

Dreams are important to our lives. They keep our lives oiled and running smoothly, because they give us relaxation and inspiration. Let's take advantage of dreams, and have happier life.

Old words for these days

Chris Lee

Recently, in English class, we were asked to consider some motto or famous words that inspire us in some way. One of my favorite quotes is "If you seek to live, you should die. But, if you seek to die, you should live." I first encountered this quote upon coming here, to the Korean Min-jok Leadership Academy. Can you fathom the meaning of this quote?

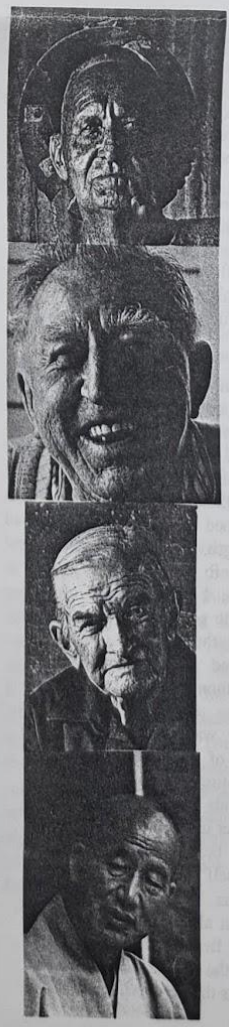

These words were spoken by Admiral Lee Soon Shin, of the Jo-Sun dynasty. He was speaking to his soldiers during a very important naval battle, while defending his homeland from the aggression of Japanese invaders. He meant that, if you want to live, you should make every effort to fight against the enemy, as if you are trying to die. Otherwise, you would most likely die in the battle.

This quote does not necessarily apply only to the battle, but also can apply to many other aspects of our daily lives. In other words, if you merely seek to escape a hard situation (like a entrance exam or a final match of sports game), you are more likely to fail and receive no benefit. However, if you rush the situation and make the best of it, you are likely to succeed.

Why, do you suppose, I choose this quote as my favorite? I did so because life, here at Minjok Academy is totally different from the life I used to live in Canada. In this school, all the students do their best in their studies. And the level of their academic ability seems far higher than mine. Therefore, I figure that, in order to survive in this school and achieve my goals, I have to make double and re-doubled effort--and be serious, like I'm on a battlefield.

Actually, I would say that all Koreans would do well to keep this quote in mind. These days, everybody knows that our country is in big, economic trouble. Nevertheless, we seem not to realize how serious this situation is. Some of us still waste a lot of money; and politicians sometimes seem to spend, carelessly, the taxes earned with great effort by our earnest blood, sweat, and tears. I think that our own laziness and our own idleness brought about the "IMF" situation. The fault does not belong to one, specific person. It belongs to all of us. Thus, definitely it's up to all of us to solve this problem. Then, we should keep this quote in mind, and work our tasks with the utmost sincerity and seriousness that Admiral Lee advocated. If we do so, I strongly believe that Korea will advance again, and bring a great and noble leadership to the whole of Asia and even to the entire world.

Agape or Supra-natural love is:

·When I consider the one I love before my own wants or when the other person's needs become more important than my own.

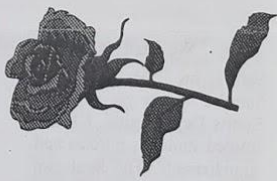

·When someone mistreats me and I do not seek revenge.

·When someone hurts me and I do not (in order to ease my hurt) tell others about what this person has done to me.

·When I do not feel bitter towards a person who hurts, me but I try to understand them instead.

·When I see someone who is unkind, ugly, or undesirable, or someone who is unkind, ugly and undesirable, as precious and valuable.

·When I am still patient with the person who constantly disappoints me.

·When I continue to care for one who hates me or has rejected me.

·When I discipline my loved one who has done something wrong knowing that they will be a better person because of the discpline.

·When I spend time, money, and effort on someone knowing that they cannot or will not return the favor.

·When I love someone no matter who they were, who they are or who they will be, and no matter what they've done, what they are doing, and what they will do.

·When I am willing to sacrifice all I have for my loved one.

Just imagine what our world would be like if we had this kind of love!

The National Korean Archery Contest

Friday, September 18th, the National Korean Archery Contest was held in Korean Military Academy. About 4 schools, including KMLA, participated the contest in high school division.

In our school, 16 students participated. The team consisted of Lee Sang-Yoon, Lee Min-Woo, Goo Bon-Sang, Kim Sang-Hoon, Jang Joon-sung, Kim Kwang-Lim, Ha So-Myung, Park Young-Soo, Jeong Hyun-Jung, Yoon Gook-Jung, Kim Seo-Ha, Kim Sun, Kim Doh-Sun, Oh Jae-Lynn, You Jee-Hye. They had practised for about a month for the contest under the teaching of Coach Cho Seok-Joon. Fifteen players were divided into 3 groups which were 2 boy's teams and 1 girl's team.

On the contest day, they had lunch in the Military cafeteria before the competition. Because the principal of Academy was interested in highschool archery players, he invited them for a lunch. After lunch, they competed with the teams from other schools. As the weather was a little bit windy, our players couldn't do well because they were not used to the wind.

As a result, Lee Sang-Yoon won third place and got 100,000 won in the individual competition. The boy's team No. 1 consisting of Sang-Yoon, Min-Woo, Bon-Sang, Sang-Hoon, Joon-sung won fourth place and also got 100,000 won in the group competition. Even though he didn't win any prizes, Park Yung-Soo hit the target 5 times, and some other players hit it several times too. Kim Seo-Ha was the only girl to hit the target twice, taking first place among the female players in Korea.

This contest was very important for our school, because it was the first archery competition in which our school has participated. It also has an important meaning that those prizes which our players won were the first which we acquired in National Physical Educational Contests.

Samdae (Three Generation) Sports Day

Jonghyuk Lee

We had a great event on Oct.24th, the Samdae (three generation) Sports Day meeting. KMLA invited student's parents and grandparents. The final aim of this event was, "hyo," which means "respect the old." To achieve the goal of the event "hyo," we had many folk plays, such as traditional swing, seesaw play, archery, wrestling etc. However we just had 2 modern sport competitions volleyball and 8km marathon.

Hyun-pyo was the best player of the traditional swing competition. After seeing Mr. Yun's exhibition, somebody said "Hyun-pyo's swing ability is just as good as Mr. Yun's."

One of the special day's special features was the appearances of super women, so called Ajumma budae, who helped the white team. The best player of the volleyball game was Ji-hae's aunt, past time professional player of Hanil Habsung team. She played extremely well. During cheering competition time, Jun-nyoung's mother helped the white team by playing the Janggu, an hourglass-shaped drum, and the small gong.

In "peeling the fruit" game, Ju-hyun exhibited the best piece of work whose theme is POWER. It was very sexual but really artistic. Many students gave him a big hand.

In 8km marathon, Jun-sung was the best. We need good patience and health for the marathon, and Jun-sung proved himself to be the healthiest guy.

I could recognize great aspects of KMLA students from the event of the sports day; both physical and mental aspects. First I could see the great physical aspects from the 8km marathon: I found not only patience but also physical strength. Most students came to approach the goal within 1 hour. I could also see the great mental aspects from the patient students showed during the 8km marathon. Frankly speaking, I was disappointed. This event was emphasized the idea of hyo. However, in lunchtime most of the students lined up for their hunger in front of BBQ grill. And before saying "Help yourself" to teachers and parents and grand parent, almost all students had their meal first. I hope we can hold the true "hyo" oriented Sports day next year.

The Minjok Rafting Camp

Freshman Lee Seok-Won

Last September 12th~13th, Minjok students went camping to Dong-Gang, Young-Wol. It was a fine day for a camping. We got to the camping place with school buses. Each team set up their tents and prepared the supper for themselves.

From 8:00 PM to 10:00 PM, we had a recreation time. The "programmers", Jin Jung-Gun and Jung Byung-Kwon led the recreation well. Especially freshman Jung Byung-Kwon gave a big joy to all students. Every student who participated in the talent contest tried their best. And thanks to them, all students had a good time.

After the recreation, the members of school astronomy club, Apple Pie, led students to "Parade of Stars". We could forget all anxieties during that time.

Next day, after morning exercises, we prepared breakfast. We had to eat a lot because we knew that we could not eat until we finish rafting. And the rafting was scheduled to end around 1:30 PM. We went to the rafting place with school buses after breakfast.

Students and some teachers were taught by the rafting coach that how we cope with the emergency. We became one during the training. Divided into eight teams, we started rafting. It was a very exciting rafting.

This camp had an important meaning: it was the first camp with new comers. And this camp also helped all of students to know more about each other.

Jee Soon Lee

My name is Jee Soon Lee. I'm 16 years old, and I was born in Jan. 14th, 1983. There are four members in my family. Both of my parents are professors. My brother is 24 years old. and his major is politics. My sister is 23 years old. Her major is piano and composition, she is in America now.

As you know, I'm from Pusan. I attended PIHS (Pusan International High School) for 6 months. when I heard about the entering exam of our school this August, I didn't care about it seriously. Even though I failed the exam, it didn't seemed to be important to me But as I visit here, and saw the surroundings of our school, my idea changed. "I should come here whatever may happen" Compared with other normal highschool, it was really different. At that time, my feeling was beyond description. So that was the main reason why I decided to leave PIHS so easily. Second reason was IVY class. At first, I expected to join min-jok class. But when I heard about IVY program, it fascinated me. Because going abroad was one of my oldest dreams. It was a little bit dangerous, but I believed that it must be a promising work.

I really thank everybody to help me a lot. All of you are so kind and nice. Although we cannot meet each other often, let's keep close relationships.

Rena

Hello, I am Rena.

I'm very glad to meet you all and want to be your friend. Hmm... I'm from In-chon though there's nothing to be proud of. Actually I have never lived in other city.

And I love Michael Learns to Rock music. Some of you might already know that. I wish every Minjok student will enjoy their music someday.

Anyway, I need your help to adjust this school and hope I can get.

Thank you and I love you!

Sae-In Kim

Before I came to KMLA, I've spent 3 years at the King's School in Sydney then 2 years at Worchester Academy near Boston. I came here to achieve my goal, which is to get into one of the Ivy-league School. I think KMLA is the idea place where my dream can come true. I think I've been here at KMLA for a little more than two weeks. It was not easy to adapt to he new environment, anyhow, I was able to settle in here a lot quicker than I've expected. I think I was able to do that because of your help. I appreciate your help.

Jin-ah Kim

Name : Jin-ah Kim
Birth of Date : September 27, 1982
Family : father, mother, younger brother, and myself.
Hobby : singing and listening to music while walking.
Speciality : sleeping anytime, anywhere.
Favorites : every sport which I can do except running, popular songs, dogs, every Korean food except Bam-tang, Young-yang tang.
Valuable things : my family, friends, and all of my stuffs.....etc.

The above is a brief introdution of myself.

Before I came to KMLA, I lived in New Zealand for 1 and half years. Actually, while I was lived there I did not think about coming back to Korea and definately not KMLA. But when I heard about this school and the Ivy program, I wanted to get into this school. Because I thought if I got into KMLA and study in there, it would be easier to get into Ivy league schools than studying in New Zealand. So somehow I came into this school and I spent over 2 months already. Now I'm satisfied with my life in KMLA and enjoy it a lot. Also I love all of my friends in here a lot, too. Well I'm thanksful to everyone who helped me to get used to this school, and I want to keep my good relationship with you guys. (Minjok Herald-Jinah kim)

Afterwards …

I first thank bro- Ducksoo for his hard work. I feel sorry that the article that I wrote on Mr. Kim and Mr. Nah were cut out because there was no more room. I'm, so sleepy. I must go and get some sleep.

-Ju Suck

I am a reporter. But I did report, edit, …
I'm glad to have a chance to make a newspaper.
I'll be a good reporter. Not an editor.

-Kim Min Ho

It was hard work. But because it was hard, it has been a very good experience to me. I felt that I must study English much more.

-Jong Hyuk

It was a very nice experience. However, frankly speaking ……. .
Anyhow, it was finished, and I am satisfied with it.
That's all.

-Kim Jin Soo

It's the first school newspaper which I made. It was fun and intersting than I expected but I'm sorry that we don't have enough time. If we had uch time, we could do much more things … I hope that his newpaper will last forever. To conclude, I with many people would enjoy this newspaper.

-Jung-Ui Min

Although it was hard work, I enjoyed making the newspaper with other members.
I think I did my best, and I am satisfied with the result.

-Lee Seok Won

Minjok Herald is the first newspaper for our school, and it is also the first one for me.
As we didn't have much time to make it, we couldn't do our best job.
But we will do better next time and this newspaper will last forever with the history of our school. I enjoyed making it, and I'm happy that we made it successfully.

-Yoon Gook Jung

Hmm... It's already mid night. I should hurry not to be late at night greeting.
As a yearbook lay-out editor, I just helped them make a newspaper but it was not an easy work. (Actually I'm really tired now.)
Being a newspaper editor.. It was my dream. Well, when I was an elementary school girl, I wanted to be a journalist, though it becomes just one of my memories now.
Anyway I think it could be one of my special experience in my school life and also was a very good chance to become closer with my friends.
Anyway, I hope I can help them again.. Being sleepy, I should stop here. Thank you...

-Kim Rena

Tonight, 8 pages of history have been made in this room by our hands!
I feel really proud to be the member of the FIRST <Minjok Hearald> staff!

-Juhyun Jeong

I can't remember what has happened the past several days. Now I feel free and really thank to all our members and many friends. Thanks to you, we made this newspaper. Thank you.

-Ko Ducksoo

8 hours passed since I sat in front of the computer, and … !!
